

Coolidge Makes Earnest Plea For Tolerance

No Race Has Monopoly of Patriotism and Character, He Tells American Legion—Many Elements Make Up 100 Per Cent Americanism—Religious Liberty Must Be Maintained.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 6.—Omaha and the American Legion welcomed President and Mrs. Coolidge to Nebraska this morning in tumultuous demonstration.

Thousands of citizens massed in front of the Union Station almost at daybreak and broke into a tremendous ovation as the presidential train pulled in. Twenty-one guns, drawn up outside the station by the 1st Field Artillery, crashed out in presidential salute.

Officially greeted in the trainshed by a joint committee representing the state, the American Legion and the city, the presidential party was escorted to their automobiles.

From there the party proceeded slowly through the main thoroughfare of the city, solidly packed with cheering people, to the home of Walter Head, local banker, where the executive planned to rest briefly before starting for the auditorium to deliver his speech.

Twelve thousand legionnaires were crisscrossed into the city auditorium when a president arrived.

Cheer President Ten Minutes.

Following the formal introduction of National Commander Drain, the president rose to a demonstration that lasted ten minutes before Mr. Coolidge was able to start his speech.

It was a fine, sunny day, that chilled the bones, failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the war veterans, and every telling point in the address was cheered to the echo.

President Coolidge's Address.

Following is the text of President Coolidge's address before the American Legion convention.

Commander and Members of the American Legion:

It is a high privilege to sit as a member of this convention. Those who exercise it have been raised to a rank of a true nobility. It is a rank of personal merit which did not come by right of birth but by conquest. No one can ever question your title as patriots. No one ever doubts the place of affection and honor which you hold forever in the heart of the Nation. You are to be here results from what you dared and what you did and the things which you made for our common country. It is all a glorious story of American enterprise and American valor.

The magnitude of the service which you have rendered to your country and to humanity is beyond estimation. Sharp lines here and there we know, but the whole account of the World War would be on a scale so stupendous it could never be recorded. In victory which was finally gained you and your foreign comrades represented on the battle field the best efforts of our whole people. There were there as the result of a resurgence of the old American spirit, which manifested itself in a hundred ways—by the pouring out of vast sums of money in credits and advances, by the organization and keeping of every hand in our export industries, by the expansion of our manufacturing facilities, by the manufacture of an unending stream of munitions and supplies, by the creation of vast fleets of war and transport ships and, finally, when the tide of battle was turning against our allies, by bringing into action a vast force on sea and land of which the world had never before, when it finally placed its place in the line, never ceased to advance, carrying the cause of a triumphant conclusion. We reaffirmed the position of this Nation in the estimation of mankind. We saved civilization from a gigantic disaster. Nobody says now that Americans can not fight.

We fought for Civilization.

Our people were influenced by motives to undertake to carry on this gigantic conflict, but we are and came out singularly free of those questionable causes and those which have often characterized the wars of the past. We were not moved to gratify the ambitions of a few, to gratify the ambitions of a few, to gratify the ambitions of a few. We were not moved by trade and commercial desires. We fought for other things. We fought for the time came when we were called to defend our own people and protect the rights and liberties of our own citizens. We believed, that those institutions which we cherish with a sacred affection, and which lie at the foundation of our whole scheme of human civilization, the right of freedom, the right of self-government, were in jeopardy. We thought, that the world was involved in a struggle of the earth were to be ruled by those who were not to be ruled.

Lived Eight Weeks With Broken Neck

Carl Aaron VanKleeck died at his home, 14 Washington avenue, Monday, aged 23 years. On Saturday, August 15 while diving in the Esopus creek he broke his neck, his death being the result of the accident. He was a popular young man with many friends. Besides his wife, Althea Meade VanKleeck, he is survived by his father, Aaron VanKleeck, and two half brothers, Joseph and William VanKleeck. Funeral private. Friends desiring to view the remains may do so at the residence this evening between 7 and 9 o'clock. Interment in Rosendale Plains Cemetery.

Literacy Tests For New Voters

New Voters in Kingston May Take Tests at High School, Where Certificates Also Will Be Issued to Those Presenting Proper Credentials.

Certificates of literacy may be issued to all new voters by the superintendent of schools.

First. To all persons who have successfully completed the work prescribed for the sixth grade of the public schools or the equivalent elsewhere, without examination.

Second. To all persons who have not completed the work of the sixth grade, after successfully passing the literacy test furnished by the State Department of Education.

The amended election law provides that any person may present as evidence of literacy to the election officials, a diploma or certificate showing that the new voter has graduated from an eighth grade elementary school or school of higher grade in which English was the language of instruction.

New voters belonging to the first class should present to the superintendent of schools a certificate from his principal or teacher to the effect that he or she has completed the sixth grade.

Beginning Tuesday evening, October 6, and on every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evening thereafter until the Wednesday preceding the last day of registration from 7:15 to 9 o'clock Principal Frank L. Meagher will give the literacy test to new voters of the second class and will also issue certificates to new voters of the first class. Principal Meagher will also be at the high school on Thursday evening, October 8, and on Friday and Saturday evenings, October 16 and 17, from 7 to 9 o'clock to meet new voters who need certificates of literacy.

This matter of securing literacy certificates is something that each new voter should attend to promptly. Failure to do so may deprive him of the privilege of voting.

Rum Chaser Is Safe in Port

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 6.—After given up for lost with a fleet of vessels scouring the seas for sign of her, the coast guard patrol boat 101, came into port here under her own power today conveyed by patrol boat 183.

Other ships of the dry navy searched the rum chaser for four hours without finding a trace of her, while the air was kept clear of messages from the distressed boat. Every man aboard No. 101 was working frantically at the pumps, but the water was gaining inch by inch when patrol boat No. 183 bore alongside and took the injured vessel in tow.

No. 101 was injured by buffeting seas, it was believed. Commander William Ridgely of the Atlantic City coast guard station, denied that the boat had been damaged in a battle with rum runners.

"We are taking water from a leak at the bow. Men are at the pumps," was the message wireless out from No. 101, which turned the attention of this part of the Atlantic seaboard to the search.

Parker Case Goes To Grand Jury

Irving Parker of Monticello on Sunday near Glenford while driving an automobile collided with a Poughkeepsie car and damaged it considerably. The car he collided with was owned by Earl H. Convery of 33 Warrall street, whose wife, Mrs. Esther Convery, Mrs. Oliver of 34 West street and Eddie Mackey of 104 Winkles avenue, all of Poughkeepsie, all being more or less shaken up.

Monday a warrant for the arrest of Parker was secured and he was arrested by Sergeant Cunningham and arraigned before Judge Charles R. Tiller at West Hurley. He waived examination on the charge of operating a motor vehicle while he was in an intoxicated condition and was held to await the action of the grand jury. Pending the forwarding of bail Parker is locked in the Ulster county jail.

Two Troopers Die When Train And Car Collide

Troopers Ernest F. Rudd and Thomas J. Scanlon Killed When Police Car Is Struck by Black Diamond Express—Trooper Brockman In Critical Condition.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Geneva, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Sixteen months ago three "buddies" stepped out of military service to don the grey of the state police. On duty they were inseparable chums. On duty they always were detailed together.

Today they are separated. Two of them are dead—killed on duty—and the third is in critical condition at Geneva General Hospital, but is expected to recover.

Only by a miracle did the three miss going over the "great divide" as they had lived—together.

Trooper John W. Brockman of Ulster, sole survivor, was driving the state police car which was crumpled like a cardboard box before the speeding Black Diamond Express at the outlet crossing, two miles east of Geneva late yesterday.

Half buried in the wreckage, he was found alive. More than 100 feet from the scene of the collision, his buddies, Troopers Ernest F. Rudd, 20, of Rome, and Thomas J. Scanlon, 25, of Hamilton, lay dead.

The three were returning to the Waterloo Barracks after taking two prisoners to Canandaigua for trial. They could see three-quarters of a mile down the track as they started across, but the Black Diamond Express, thundering over the "high iron" at 70 miles an hour covered that gap in a breath.

The locomotive of the speeding train drawing the mail, combination and two parlor cars with it, jumped the tracks at the collision and went plowing down the road bed, ripping a path through ties and earth for several hundred yards, coming to a stop at a precarious point on a bank atop the Seneca river.

By another freak of fortune, no passenger was injured, investigators announced.

Germany Is Weighty Problem

Conditions Under Which Germany Will Enter League of Nations Is Important Problem Before Allied Parley—Arbitration Agreement Also Confronts Conference.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Locarno, Switzerland, Oct. 6.—Progress of the security pact negotiation was somewhat retarded today by the illness of Herr Stresemann, German foreign minister. Change of climate has affected Stresemann's throat and he has not been able to actively participate in the negotiations since yesterday afternoon, but it is hoped that he will be able to attend a plenary session of the conference later in the day.

Ground work for the proposed security pact has been readily accomplished, and the next plenary session will take up some of the more knotty clauses in the proposed pact, which have been the subject of discussions by the judicial experts during the past 24 hours.

One of the important problems before the conference now is the question of the entrance of Germany into the League of Nations. While it is accepted as a matter of principle that Germany will enter the league as a part of the pact agreement, there is much doubt as to under what conditions she will enter. German opposition to article XVI, which would permit the sending of troops across Germany, is strong and it is doubtful whether the German delegation would dare to enter the league without some sort of an understanding regarding this league provision.

Another problem confronting the conference is the question of arbitration, agreement between Germany and her neighbors on the eastern frontier. It is reported that England and France are agreed that they cannot definitely enter into a security pact with Germany until she has made arbitration agreements with Poland and Czechoslovakia. It is probable that Polish and Czechoslovakian delegates may arrive here tonight to discuss such arbitration agreements.

Judge Clearwater on Cathedral Committee

Bishop Nazarene has appointed Judge Clearwater a member of a committee of forty lawyers which has been selected to arrange for the construction of one of the bays in the name of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, to commemorate some of the great American jurists and to identify with the Cathedral the profession of the law and the ideals for which its distinguished members stand. Among the other members of the committee are Eliza Root, Robert W. DeForest, William M. Everts, Henry W. Taft, George W. Everts, John G. Milburn, George Zabracke and Paul A. Cravath.

The first dance of the season to be given by the Masonic Club will be held at the club rooms Wednesday evening. Zucca's orchestra will furnish the music.

Supreme Court Trial Term Opens

Kingston Gas & Electric Company Sued By Mrs. Black and Insurance Company Because Its Wires Are Claimed to Have Caused Fire Which Destroyed House.

Thomas McManus of Marlborough was selected as foreman of the grand jury which is in attendance at the October term of the Supreme court which convened Monday afternoon at the court house. The grand jury after having its duties outlined by Judge G. D. D. Hasbrouck, presiding justice, entered upon its duties. There are a number of cases to be investigated by the grand jury.

Of the 329 cases on the civil calendar a great many were marked over the term and still a greater number marked for the second week of the court. The trial term will not last more than two weeks, from present indications.

An action for damages and subrogation on insurance policy was taken up for trial. The action is brought by Mollie Black of the town of Esopus and the London, Liverpool & Globe Insurance Company against the Kingston Gas & Electric Company. The insurance company, through its agent, Schuyler C. Schultz, insured property of Louis E. Black, the former James Van Aken farm on the state road two miles south of Port Ewen, and after one of the buildings had been destroyed by fire in April, 1924, paid $1,000 insurance to Mrs. Black as administratrix of her husband. The action in court is to recover for loss of the property, all moneys up to $1,000 recovered from defendant to be for the benefit of the insurance company, and all money in excess of that amount to be for the benefit of the plaintiff Black.

In 1923 the Kingston Gas & Electric Company secured consent of the town board of Esopus to erect a transmission line through the town. The line was erected after consent had been secured and Mr. Black gave permission to string the 4,000 volt line through certain trees on the roadside in front of his property. Among the trees was an ash tree near 67 old house on the easterly side of the road. It was this house, which was later destroyed by fire in April of the following year, which was discovered in the house, which was consumed. At that time the electric high wire running in front of the house was found to have some of the insulation stripped from it where it had come in contact with limbs of the tree. Mr. Black contended that the company had been negligent in erecting the line and in failing to trim the trees properly. When the fire started he notified the electric light company and a representative was sent there and at that time it was pointed out where a limb of the ash tree was coming in contact with the wires and where the limb was burning. In the excitement which followed the firing of the building Mr. Black was seized with heart failure and dropped dead while discussing the matter.

On the stand it was admitted that at that time, the insulator through which the wire was fastened to the tree was loose, apparently having become loose during the winter's wind storms. However, it was denied that sparks from the wire had set fire to the house.

The house was an old story and a half house, one of the oldest frame houses in town, and witnesses testified that the house had been there over fifty years to their knowledge. It had not been painted for years and was described as a "ramshackle" house. Experts were called to testify as to its value. Mr. Schultz said it was valued at $2,000 and N. B. Gross also placed the same value on it. They were called by the plaintiff.

For the defendant, Alva Schoonmaker, contractor and builder, was called, and he testified that he had not been in the building but judging from appearance on the outside it was worth about $500 or $600. He testified that it was unoccupied and several windows were broken out. He said it was from 30 to 75 years old and in bad repair.

The case was submitted to the jury shortly after noon.

Henry Klein and Judge James Jenkins appeared for the plaintiff and Judge A. T. Clearwater for the defendant.

Continue Search For Pilot Ames

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Bellefonte, Pa., Oct. 6.—Governor Gifford Pinchot was expected to call out the Pennsylvania National Guard today to aid the air mail service in searching for Pilot Charles H. Ames, missing since last Thursday night, when he last was seen in the air about 25 miles east of here, en route from New York to Chicago, with a mail cargo.

Adjutant General Beary, commanded by the governor to hold the troops in readiness. Informed Pinchot that he could have several units of guardsmen on the scene of the search within a short time.

Confronted with absolute failure in the hunt thus far, Superintendent Charles E. Egge, of the air mail service, conferred with Governor Pinchot for several hours about the advisability of using troops in the search.

The governor offered all resources at his command.

While there was no indication at the air mail depot that hope for the aviator's recovery, also had been abandoned, considerable apprehension over the pilot's safety was evident. Fellow pilots fear Ames lost his way over the treacherous mountains in a dense fog and that he was forced down into some woodland when his supply of gasoline gave out.

Gem Robberies Mount Rapidly

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Oct. 6.—With the list of gem robberies within the past week rapidly mounting toward the million dollar mark, a $75,000 robbery was added to the score today.

Police were looking for a fastidious dressed bandit who stopped into the Sixth avenue jewelry store of John Linhart, bound the proprietor and three clerks and escaped with the loot.

Detectives believe the bandit was the same who robbed the Jewelers' Exchange of $100,000 in gems last Sunday. It is believed another gem robber, who was taken to the Borden hospital where an X-ray was taken to learn the extent of her injuries. She was out of the bed and legs.

Hudson River Day Line Buys Kingston Point Park

Kingston Consolidated Railroad Company Sells Well Known Recreation Park—Steamboat Company Will Develop Property and Restore It to Its Former Popularity—Will Again Become Mecca of Excursionists—Sale Closed Through Cohen Brothers.

The Hudson River Day Line today took title to Kingston Point Park. The price paid the Kingston Consolidated Railroad for the park is not made public. The deal was closed through Cohen Brothers, the main street realtors. For several months past it had been rumored that the Day Line was contemplating the purchase of the park but nothing definite was decided upon until recently.

It is understood that the Day Line is planning to develop the park and will conduct it along the same lines as the other parks along the Hudson river now controlled by the Day Line. The park property sold by the railroad road today consists of seven and a half acres and extends to within a short distance of the bridge that links the shore front with the park. This shore front is owned by the Ulster & Delaware Railroad Company.

The sale also included all of the buildings now located on the park property.

It is said that the Day Line next summer will run a series of excursions to Kingston Point Park and that it will soon become as well known to excursionists as Bear Mountain Park and the various smaller parks along on the lower Hudson river.

Kingston Point Park for many years was famous as one of the finest parks along the Hudson river. Of late years, however, interest in the park had dropped off and it was little visited by residents of Kingston and vicinity except on special occasions.

With the passing of title to the Day Line, however, it is expected that the park will again grow in popularity.

Lonely Widow Killed by Auto

Victim of Sunday's Auto Accident on Saugerties Road Identified by Brother as Mrs. Matilda Halbleb, of Kingston Who Lived Alone.

The body of the woman who was struck Sunday evening on the Saugerties road by the automobile of Joseph Hendecamp was identified late Monday afternoon when A. L. Mehm of 193 Foxhall avenue called at the undertaking parlors of Coroner W. N. Conner and identified the body as that of his sister, Mrs. Matilda Halbleb of 19 Shufeldt street, this city. Mr. Mehm after viewing the body positively identified it. He said she was 64 years old and had been born at Ruby, in the town of Ulster, a daughter of the late Casper Mehm. Mrs. Halbleb was the widow of the late Constant Halbleb and resided alone. The fact that she lived alone was responsible for her not having been missed and the body identified at an earlier hour.

It is presumed that Mrs. Halbleb left her home Sunday and walked out the Saugerties road to visit friends. As darkness approached she became confused as to the direction of Kingston and this accounted for her stopping at the Lake Karine Garage and inquiring the direction to Albany and Foxhall avenues. After being directed she continued her way toward her home and it was while on her way to this city that she was struck and fatally injured.

The body was turned over by Coroner Conner to Stock & Cordis, undertakers.

The funeral of Mrs. Halbleb will be held from the late residence, 19 Shufeldt street, Thursday morning at 9 o'clock and at 9:30 o'clock from St. Peter's Church with a requiem Mass for the repose of her soul. Interment in the family plot in St. Peter's cemetery.

The Christian Mother's Society of St. Peter's Church are asked to assemble at her late home Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock to recite the rosary.

Organize Dairy Improvement As'n

Raymond B. Staples Secured an Association Tester—To Gather Necessary Data—Present Membership of Association.

Dairymen throughout Ulster county will be interested to learn that the organization of a dairy improvement association, a movement long needed in this county, has been entirely completed, according to a recent announcement at the Farm Bureau headquarters. Realizing the need for this work and the valuable influence it may have on the dairy business in the county, leading dairymen have given assistance to the movement with the result that on October 1, Raymond B. Staples of Mt. Kisco, N. Y., assumed the duties of association tester for one year. The directors feel fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Staples, who comes recommended as especially well qualified to handle the testing and record work.

Dairymen who have joined the association are paying an annual subscription of forty-eight dollars or at the rate of four dollars per month. In return for this outlay they will receive the personal services of Mr. Staples on their farm one day in each month. On this day weights and samples will be taken of each individual cow's production for the two milkings. Feed weights, including hay, grain, silage and other roughages, will also be taken. A butter fat test for each animal will be made from the sample of milk taken.

With this necessary data at hand a complete record of the production cost of feed, value of product, and the value of product above cost of feed will then be computed. All computations will be recorded in the owners herd book for his inspection and study. Feeding practices may be changed in accordance with the advice of the tester and the judgment of the herd owner as supported by the actual record of production. Through this complete record system many of Ulster county's "poor" cows will be passed along to the happy hunting grounds, to be replaced by offspring from the high producer.

Fifty Thousand Dollars for TRUE STORIES

Your Own Story May Be Your Fortune!

THE publishers of True Story Magazine are going to pay Fifty Thousand Dollars to three hundred and eleven men and women in amounts ranging from $5,000 to $100 in exchange for true stories. Why not be among them?

Nearly every man and woman has lived at least one story, which has more power for good, than any fiction story ever written.

It is stories of this kind that True Story is ever in search of—true stories of the human heart, stories of struggles against tremendous odds, of success.

Therefore we are making this unprecedented offer of $50,000 for three hundred and eleven stories.

Every person has an equal opportunity in this contest. Remember, the story is the thing that counts—not literary skill. If it contains the human quality we seek it will receive preference over tales more skillfully written.

The November True Story is now on the newsstands. In it there are twenty-two examples of the kind of story most acceptable. While it is not necessary for you to either buy or read True Story in order to enter the contest, a first hand knowledge of the magazine should help you in preparing your story.

Stories may be sent in at any time from now until May 31st, 1926. In submitting manuscripts please carefully observe the rules which appear elsewhere on this page.

Read in November True Story

What Money Cannot Buy, When Beauty Betrays, His Hour of Faith, Deeds of Endurance, Her Tangled Life, Should a Woman Tell The Woman Who Knew, Ashes of the Past, Would you Forgive Him? His First Mistake, The Road of Indecision, The Lesson I Learned, The Widow in White, Blind Love, If He Hadn't Missed Her, When Windows Are Folly, One Story—Another Rango.

Also 5 other equally thrilling stories.

Why We Are Making This Unusual Offer

We are now receiving ample stories at regular rates, but if it is possible to raise the quality of True Story it is our desire to do so.

Rules Governing True Story Contest

All stories must be written in the first person. Typewritten manuscripts are preferred, though manuscripts written in pen and ink will be accepted. Pencil manuscripts will not be read.

Write on one side of the paper only and do not use thin tissue or onion-skin paper. Write your full name and address in upper left hand corner of first page of your manuscript. Number the pages.

Address your manuscript to the True Story Contest Editor, 1715 Broadway, New York City. Unless so addressed no manuscript will be entered in the contest. Enclose with it a self-addressed stamped envelope.

Every effort will be made to return unavailable manuscripts, but we do not hold ourselves responsible for such return, and we advise all correspondents to retain a copy of manuscripts submitted.

Upon receipt of each manuscript, an acknowledgment will be mailed to the sender. Awards will be made for the best stories submitted. Stories will be judged from the standpoint of human interest and interest regardless of literary merit.

The decision of the judges on all manuscripts will be final, there being no appeal from their decision.

The contest is open to everyone except employees of Macmillan Publications and members of their families.

The contest will close at midnight, May 31st, 1926.

Only manuscripts received on or before midnight of May 31st, 1926 will be admitted to the contest.

Any story considered acceptable by the Editors for immediate publication will be paid for at our regular rates and this in no way will affect the judges' decision.

ONE CENT A WORD ADVS. BRING RESULTS

To Arrange for Friday's Parade

Chief Joseph L. Murphy has issued a call to all of the officers of the volunteer fire companies of the city and the exempt to meet with him at 5 o'clock at the Central Fire Station to talk over arrangements for the big firemen's parade to be staged in Kingston on Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. At the meeting tonight it is expected that a report will be made from each organization as to how many men they will have in line for the parade. The old hand pumper has been placed in shape for the parade and will be demonstrated at the Athletic Field at the close of the parade.

Radio Stations Were Silent

Radio broadcasting stations from New York city and other Atlantic coast stations stopped operating Monday night soon after the first SOS signal was received from the coast guard cutter 101, shortly after 8 o'clock. After sending out the SOS call the cutter started limping into port on one engine without giving any information as to her whereabouts and as a result there was a commotion among ships off the New Jersey coast as they went to her assistance from every direction and ship radios which might interfere were also silenced. That was the reason why local radio fans were unable to tune in any of the Atlantic seaboard stations after 8 o'clock that evening. Station WGY, Schenectady, Station WHAZ Troy, and other inland stations continued to operate throughout the evening.

Father O'Reilly To Give Address

On Columbus Day at Exercises of Knights of Columbus, which will be open to the public—Officers of Local Council Installed.

Following the installation of officers of Kingston Council, No. 275, Knights of Columbus, Monday evening, plans for the exercises to be held on Columbus Day, Monday evening, October 12, were outlined. The Rev. Francis M. O'Reilly, pastor of St. Peter's Church, Rosendale, will deliver the address at this time. Father O'Reilly is very widely known as an eloquent speaker and as many warm friends throughout the city who will welcome the opportunity to hear another of his eloquent addresses. The exercises will be open to the public as in former years and the committees in charge are planning for the convenience of record crowd. There will also be a musical entertainment and refreshments following the address, which will be likewise open to the general public. Following are the officers installed Monday evening: Grand Knight, William B. Byrne; deputy grand knight, F. B. Wingert; chancellor, Edward J. Feeney; recorder, William J. Leonard; financial secretary, F. Ryer; warden, William Lee; inside guard, John McCardle; vocate, J. Edward Conway; trustee for three years, William A. Gold; and lecturer, William McAuliffe.

TINKERING WITH PRESENT TARIFF LAW

Telegraph to The Freeman. Washington, Oct. 6.—There will be no tinkering with the existing tariff law at the coming session of Congress, Representative Green, Republican, Iowa, chairman of the Ways and Means committee, declared today.

This means that additional tariff reduction and tariff adjustments sought by the textile interests of England, the shingle and lumber industry of the northwest, and copper mining industry of Arizona and other southwestern states to be denied.

TO MEET WEDNESDAY

The Automobile Dealers' Association of Kingston will hold an important meeting Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the Millard & Son rooms on Central Broadway. Members of the National Automobile Dealers' Association will be present at the meeting and speak. They will have a message of interest in the automobile trade and an invitation has been extended to all automobile business in Ulster county to attend the meeting.

Clam Chowder Sale.

Colonial Rebekah Lodge degree will serve clam chowder by pot or plate at Odd Fellows' Hall, 125 Broadway, on Wednesday night, Oct. 7. Orders for chowder by the pot may be telephoned to Mrs. W. W. Land, 2374, or to Mrs. Paul Rod, 1541-J.

Governor Would Abolish Census

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Abolition of the state census through an amendment to the constitution will be recommended by Governor Smith in his annual message to the 1926 legislature, it was declared at the capitol today by friends of the executive.

Returning to the executive chamber after a five days' absence in New York, the governor declined to comment on these reports. "I don't care to talk about that now," the governor said. "It is hard to predict in October what I will incorporate in my message in January."

Five Prisoners Escape From Jail

By Telegram to The Freeman. Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 6.—John Stanton, awaiting trial for the murder of John Penny, and four other prisoners escaped from the provincial jail here today.

The men sawed two bars from each of their cells, overpowered the jailor, secured his keys and ran through the jail doors to a waiting automobile.

Beside Stanton, others who escaped were Alex Shupenluk, G. Laborkuk, Archie McKenzie and A. T. Blake. Saws had been smuggled into the jail to the prisoners. The jailor was bound and gagged.

Shipping Board Removes Palmer

By Telegram to The Freeman. Washington, Oct. 6.—The United States Shipping Board today took a further slap at President Coolidge's policies today by removing Admiral Leigh Palmer as president of the Emergency Fleet Corporation. Palmer was previously selected by President Coolidge for the office from which he is now removed. After voting Palmer's removal, the board voted to make him vice-president of the Fleet Corporation, in charge of European activities, and elected Captain Elmer E. Crowley of New York to the headship of the corporation. Crowley is now general manager of the Export Steamship Company.

Spanish Forces Join With French

By Telegram to The Freeman. Fez, Oct. 7.—The French and Spanish armies on the western sector have established liaison at Syah.

Aviation officers have made liaison possible, as the result of the rapid advance of the Spanish troops yesterday.

With liaison established through aerial forces it is now expected that Marshal Petain will order his troops forward and that there will be an early joining of the actual lines held by the two armies.

Force In Sight.

Madrid, Oct. 6.—Continued and important successes in Morocco have instilled in official Spanish circles the hope that 14 years of apparently interminable warfare with the Rifis may be drawing toward a close. "The morale of Rifians is breaking up," read today's communiqué. "Leaders are deserting Abd-el-Krim and tribes which have been loyal to him are assassinating their chiefs and refusing to send contingents to the front."

"Defections are reported in Guenais and Beni Urraghai tribes. The Beni Tucin and Tensaman tribes have sacked and destroyed important stores of Rifian munitions."

There is hope that Abd-el-Krim soon will be in a mood to make overtures for peace, peace which Spain is disposed to grant.

FIVE PERSONS INJURED WHEN COACHES DERAIL

By Telegram to The Freeman. Stamford, Conn., Oct. 6.—Spreading rails on the main line of the New Haven road near the Darien-Stamford town lines early this afternoon derailed three steel coaches of train 64, bound from New York to Boston. Five persons were injured.

New York, Oct. 6.—A number of passengers were injured today when the New York-Boston train of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad was derailed between Stamford and Glen Brook, Conn. The train left Grand Central Terminal at 12 o'clock for Boston via Springfield, Mass. Complete reports of the wreck were unavailable at the railroad's offices here up to 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Supper and Dance.

This evening at the White Eagle Hall, Delaware avenue, there will be served a supper followed by a dance under the auspices of the ladies of the Sacred Heart Society. Music will be supplied by the Colonial Serenaders.

REPUBLICANS ON GUARD.

When people go to the polls next month they should have in mind the very important fact that they are taking a step in the election of a Republican governor in 1926, and also in the election of a United States senator the same year. But this is not all. They must further remember that the election of Republican assemblymen is imperative, for with out a Republican assembly to work in harmony with a Republican senate in the reapportionment of assembly and senatorial districts Tammany might make inroads upon upstate sections, which is its chief ambition.

The election of Republican assemblymen this year is really of greater importance than many might admit without giving the subject some thought. If the number of Republican assemblymen should be reduced it would be interpreted as a gain by Democrats and would lead to encouragement to Governor Smith's desire, for the presidential nomination or renomination for governor. There is, of course, no doubt as to the retention of the lower house by Republicans, but Republicans should be awake to the future. They should keep before them the fact that a United States senator and complete state ticket are to be voted for next year, 1926.

Tammany has never relented in its zeal to capture the legislature. Its purpose is to get control so that it can fasten its grip on the agricultural territory. This would mean Tammany-izing the entire state. Governor Smith is now accepted as the only Tammany leader, and it is obvious that he can not be the Tammany leader downstate and not the Tammany leader upstate. Under the circumstances there should be no question as to the duty of Republicans to maintain the Republican majority in the Assembly. If they should fail it might lead to Tammany dominance of the whole state. With reapportionment of the state at hand this is the time to have only Republicans on guard.

CYNTHIA'S SOCIALISM.

To on-lookers Americans the plunge of Lady Cynthia Mosley into Socialism is but a passing entertainment, but we may well believe that in England, and especially in her own social class, it is regarded as a serious matter. For she is the daughter of the late Marquis of Curzon, a Tory of Tories and perhaps the most autocratic one of his time. As a candidate for Parliament from a slum district, Lady Cynthia naturally thought she must complain that there are monstrous inequities in the existing order, that her constituents are condemned to a life of misery "through no fault of their own," that Baldwin government has utterly failed even to suggest a remedy for outrageous inequalities, and that capitalism "has had its day and is on its last legs."

But it is probable that Lady Cynthia has only hazy ideas as to what should be substituted and what could be made effective, although she mentions "nationalization of industries such as mines and electricity." Doubtless she has still nazier ideas of where she herself would be or what she would have been but for capitalism, for we may safely assume that she takes for granted and as hers by inherent right the privileges she now enjoys but has not earned by any effort of her own. Perhaps it has not occurred to her that neither she nor many of the poor might ever be able to earn them under socialism or any other established order. In any case nothing is more certain than that lack of ability, initiative and persistence in industry is more serious than lack of easy money, and that unhappily there will be plenty of such lack under the most favoring conditions of government and policy. However, if after two thousand years Lady Cynthia can come to the conclusion that the poor are always with us, let her go to it.

The pleasure loving "good spender" has been known to wonder, later on in life, why others were so much better off than he. A man of wealth recently gave the answer to a group of workers in Duluth, Minn., and in his "I always saved money, and why? Because I never had time to spend what I earned, and it accumulated." Which, of course, is only a part of the story. If he had not taken time to make careful investments there would have been but a very modest accumulation.

Young "Bob" La Follette's triumph was complete enough to tempt the staid Springfield Republican to make the frivolous announcement that "Wisconsin" is thoroughly bobbed, for the present at least.

WELCOME NEWS.

You have seen a person suffering with an attack of asthma. It is a distressing sight as he pants for breath, the face darkens, and he seems about to choke. The attack passes over and very few people die from asthma itself.

However it is a terrible thing to have hanging over one's head, and now that our physicians are learning the cause of it, the day may soon be at hand when asthma will be practically unknown.

Older physicians recognizing asthma as being often hereditary, and having to success in preventing the attacks, were contented to give remedies to relieve the attacks.

Our present day research men, however, have been able to demonstrate that the underlying cause usually can be traced to certain foods, to certain plants, to dust from animals, or dust from the house itself. They have been able to show by skin tests just which form of food or dust is causing the asthma in a certain individual. In some hundreds of cases, one physician was able to get over ninety per cent of positive reactions.

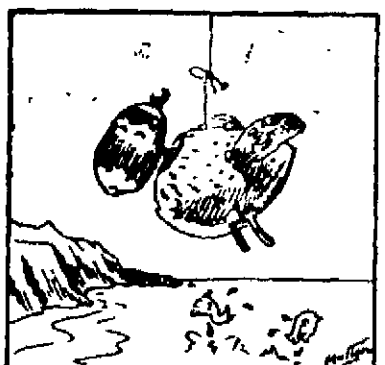

It would appear that aside from the pollen from plants, that too much meat, wheat, eggs and milk in the diet were the most frequent causes of asthma. Just as you can get too much gasoline in the mixture in the carburetor of your car, so likewise in your blood you can get too much of these protein materials for your particular body, and thus bring on an attack of asthma.

That infections in the nose and throat seem to cause this increased amount of protein to excite an attack, is likewise admitted.

However although these conditions in the nose and throat must be corrected, this does not alter the fact that the proteins as foods, or inhaled by the lungs, are the underlying causes of asthma. It is inspiring to realize that this ailment which is terrifying during an attack, and which weakens the heart and entire body, is now soon to be one of the preventable list.

Natty Natural History

By HUGH HUTTON.

THE SCANDINAVIAN POODLEBUG

These little animals are found in great swarms off the coast of Denmark chasing the schools of herring. They call to each other vigorously, and in the spring sing quite sweetly, however, with a foreign accent. They dislike kangaroos intensely, and will not go near a box of Copenhagen while they are around.

That topknot on this animal's fibert head is a ball from one of the clove that answer for his feet. The wings, made out of single peanut half shells stuck to his almond body with chewing gum, aren't much good, so a bent pin in his back will help to keep him up. The innocent look on his face just after eating a luteafish is put on with a pen.

150 YEARS AGO

The Origin of the U. S. A.

By Jonathan A. Rawson, Jr.

150 YEARS AGO . . . AMMANXTMORO THE ARMY FORMING.

"There are many things amiss in this camp, yet, upon the whole God is in the midst of us."

This camp, thus described by its chaplain 150 years ago, was George Washington's camp of the Revolutionary Army at Cambridge, Mass. The devout chaplain spoke more gently than some. Much more gently, indeed, than Washington himself. Not only were many things amiss, but many things essential to a military camp were entirely missing.

"The camp contained a people in arms, rather than an army," one of our great historians has said. Others have called the camp a mixed assemblage, even a motley rabble. Almost the only thing that was neither amiss nor missing was the most necessary thing of all, namely, the right spirit back of it all. Had there not been that spirit, there never would have been the camp, or the Revolution itself.

No adequate appreciation of the great achievement of the soldiers of the American Revolution can come from knowing only of their pitifully few victories on the battlefield, ending with their success at Yorktown in finally driving to surrender the last British army that opposed them. To appreciate their achievement fully, we must know of the tremendous obstacles against which they contended. In a very true sense, the British soldiers and their Hessian mercenary allies were the least of their troubles.

Never during the entire war were their difficulties greater than in the period 150 years ago when they were forming their army. After the battle of Lexington and Concord on April 19, 1775, some 16,000 minute men, militia, and men of no military training whatever, rushed to Cambridge, just outside Boston. On June 17, the Battle of Bunker Hill was brought on by the move of the King's soldiers to drive the Americans from entrenchments which the men of the colonies had thrown up on Charlestown Neck, overlooking Boston. Not until July 3 did the "people in arms" have one commander-in-chief whose authority they all recognized. Then Washington came to them with his commission from the Continental Congress in Philadelphia.

Then at last began the seemingly hopeless, certainly baffling, endeavor to transform that motley rabble into a real army. By September, the task was already well in hand. At any rate, by that time Washington had at least learned what his problem was to be.

Inebriates Will Imbibe Anything

As Long as the Liquid Has Kick, No Matter How Dangerous, They Are Satisfied, Is Experience of Grocer Country.

Some men must have stomachs lined with zinc and constitutions made of iron to withstand the poison they are putting into their systems since prohibition went into effect, says the Catekill Mail. Sheriff Arbogast has in his desk two bottles of liquid dynamite he took from an inebriated individual who was placed behind the bars several days ago and which Under Sheriff Andrew Speerburgh showed to a representative of The Daily Mail last night.

It would require a chemist to tell what the stuff, the bottles contained, was made of. That it had a kick, in comparison with which the impact from the heel of a mule would seem like a caress, was evident by the condition of the man who had imbibed two-thirds of a pint bottle of the awful concoction. One of the bottles had not been opened. The Daily Mail representative pulled the cork and took one sniff. And that was enough. For a brief moment he was dead to the world and after he came to, he had a headache for an hour.

The concoction was colorless and smelled as if the odors from a glue factory, a hospital operating room and a wood alcohol distillery, had been mixed and a little stagnant water from a barnyard added to give it body. But it packed a fearful wallop.

The fellows who drink that stuff are after quick results and they get them. The vile mixture in the bottle was cheaper than the alleged real whiskey, which is being sold in Catskill at 50 to 75 cents a drink and not a very large one at that. Even this whiskey is open to suspicion as to its identity and a great deal of it never saw the inside of a distillery, but is "hooch," made by bootleggers.

One druggist tells of a man coming into his place and asking for a half pint of grain alcohol. The druggist told his customer that the law required that some poison be mixed with the alcohol, to prevent its being taken internally.

"All right, said the man, 'put some carbolic acid in it'."

The druggist did so and then the customer asked for bicarbonate of soda. Receiving this he mixed it with the alcohol, neutralizing the poison and drank some of the stuff.

Another druggist said that a man asked him for alcohol and told him to medicate it with formaldehyde. This being done the customer purchased some automatic pistols of ammonia, which he poured into the alcohol and then took a swig of the concoction. The ammonia made the formaldehyde less harmful.

CANFIELD FAMILY HAVE OWNED BUSINESS 75 YEARS

The current issue of Mill Supplies, a trade journal published in Chicago, devotes considerable space to a description of the Canfield Supply Company of Kingston which, it points out, "has had a success career under representatives of two generations, and is still growing."

It is always interesting to peer into the pages of mill supply history and to note the varied colored backgrounds in the pictures of the present day distributing organizations. While the mill supply business as it exists today is of comparatively recent origin, many of the companies which are now playing an important part in the work of supplying America's industries can trace their descent back many decades. One such house is the Canfield Supply Company, 31 Ferry street, Kingston, N. Y., which is now 75 years old. The business was established in 1850 by the late P. A. Canfield, and today, three-quarters of a century after it was first started, the company's affairs remain almost entirely in the control of the founder's family.

P. A. Canfield was one of the early pioneers in the east. He built a store at the company's present address and started a store and tinware shop. At that time the Delaware & Hudson canal was in a flourishing condition, and its tide water terminal was at Kingston. Mr. Canfield manufactured a line of wash boilers, tin kettles, pails and other tinware. He devoted the winter to manufacturing, and in the spring sent his team out into the country to distribute the products.

This comparatively modest start was the beginning of a large business which later developed into a wholesale supply enterprise. In 1892, the heirs of the founder incorporated under the company's present name, and branched out into the wholesale plumbing and mill supply field.

The company still occupies the original store. In addition, it acquired from time to time other property and now occupies two large stores at 16-18 Strand and 25-27 Ferry street, running through from one street to another. It has also purchased a block of property at 13-17 Spring street and 14-16 Fremont street, and has erected two large warehouses at this point.

About five years ago, foreseeing the possibilities and the great growth of the electrical business, the company carefully surveyed the field and branched out systematically into the electrical line as an adjunct of the mill supply business, and today the company is a leading distributor of electrical supplies in the Hudson river valley.

W. C. Kinnehan, treasurer and manager of the company, and the only executive who is not a member of the Canfield family, has been associated with the business for the past 24 years. In a statement to a representative of Mill Supplies about the policy of the company, Mr. Kinnehan said:

"In the mill supply as well as in the electrical supply department, the Canfield Supply Company has pursued the policy of the late founder

First Ulster Music Concert

All holders of tickets for the series of five notable concerts to be given under the title of the Ulster County Music Association are reminded that the first concert will occur on Friday evening, October 16, at 8:15 o'clock sharp at the high school auditorium. The first concert will be a joint song recital by Marion Telva, contralto, and Allen McQuhae, tenor.

Marion Telva, the young contralto of the Metropolitan Opera Company, has gained many honors and accomplishments during her brief musical career in New York city. None has been quite as significant, outside her operatic successes, as the repeated invitations of the Friends of Music of New York to return again and sing at their concerts. Miss Telva has appeared more times for the Society of the Friends of Music—an organization of very discriminating music-lovers in New York—than any other vocal artist. Miss Telva is regularly invited by this organization to assist them in giving new works and novelties under the direction of Arthur Bodanzky, conductor of the Metropolitan Opera House orchestra.

Not only has Allen McQuhae a beautiful and resonant tenor voice of rare quality, but it has been said of him that while he sings the songs and ballads of Ireland as only an artist can, he is too great an artist to limit himself to ditties or love songs. Few men today are such masters of the art of bel canto that can sing the music of Mozart, Handel and Haydn as it should be sung and who are yet so impregnated with the feelings of today that they can interpret with authority the songs of the most modern composers. Allen McQuhae does all this and captivates his audience.

Probably through oversight a few subscribers to these concerts have not yet sent in the amount of their subscription. Mr. Dodge asks that these few outstanding subscriptions be paid in at once in order that all funds may be in hand when the first concert is given.

Rotary Boys' Night Thursday

A special program for the Rotary Boy Club will be held at the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday evening of this week. This program, which will consist of athletic stunts, is open to all old members of this club as well as to the boys who form the present membership.

The doors will open at 6:15 on Thursday and the program will begin at once. After the program on the gym floor the usual meeting of the club will be held. This will be followed by eats and a good time for all who take part.

Members (old or new) must bring with them the post card ticket which was mailed them or secure one from Mr. Hall or Ronk of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A.

In carrying quality goods, giving fair treatment and prompt service the company carries a large and well assorted stock and has always endeavored to live up to the reputation of being "Canfield's, the Prompt Shipper."

The Canfield Supply Company has always been a believer in evolution or progress, and has never been content to be a follower. Its position in the field has been held, the owners believing that there is better fishing ahead of the set than back of it. They have been quick, therefore, to look ahead to see the possibilities of a new field and to act immediately in that field. In this way they have built up a sound and constantly growing business.

The president of the company is P. A. Canfield, son and namesake of the founder of the business. For several years he was also president of the Board of National Bank, but has returned from the banking business to spend more time with his other interests. In the winter months Mr. Canfield makes his home in Florida.

Although the capital stock is but $25,000, the company carries an average stock of supplies valued at $165,000, and has five outside salesmen covering New York and New England territory.

MAX HILL WOMAN INVITATION TOURNEY

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 6.—Match play in the Indian Hills Woman's Invitation tournament at the Indian Hills Country Club was scheduled to open this morning with Miss Geneva Collett, national women's champion, pitted against Mrs. Lester E. Reis of Mount Club, Chicago. Miss Collett provided a rally from the first ball, but was outplayed yesterday, during which she was outwitted with a score of 24.

Miss Louise Fordyce of Youngstown, Ohio, who turned in the low score in Monday's play, is matched this morning with Mrs. Jay S. Connelley of Aurora, Ill. Miss Fordyce won the medal play for the first day with a count for the eighteen holes of 82, while Mrs. Connelley, her nearest opponent, played an 87.

Founded in 1906, the tournament is the largest of its kind in the world. It is held in the Indian Hills Country Club, which is a beautiful and well-known resort.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

by MARY GRAHAM BONNER

THUNDER AND LIGHTNING

"Come on hurry along," said Old King Thunder to Old Queen Thunder. "Let's have a surprise party to the Earth people."

"Let's do that," said Old Queen Thunder.

"Now, as you know without a doubt, when Old King Thunder speaks to Old Queen Thunder they yell at each other and roar at each other at the very 'tip-tops' of their voices."

This is the way they enjoy talking. Just the way we will talk in fairly low voices, or shout only when we are excited, they shout it over their speak. Sometimes their voices are louder than at other times, but they never speak in low tones.

They love their noisy, loud conversation, and they have brought up all their children to talk in the same way. Can you imagine belonging to a family that never once said:

"You would never hear that if you belonged to the Thunder family."

In fact, many a time has King Thunder shouted to one of the Thunder Cloud children and said:

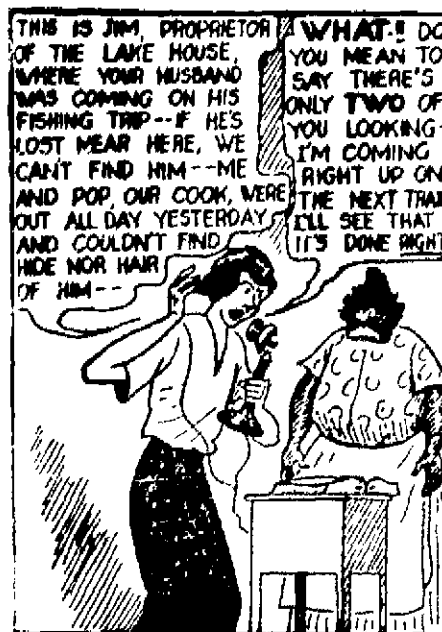

"What a weak little rumble. Roar louder. Give a real rumble. Let's hear how you can do it."

And then you will notice that the little distant rumbles and the little roars become stronger and louder, and then great, great rolling ones are louder than all.

The huge ones are King and Queen Thunder talking. The ones that get louder and louder but never the loudest of all, but yet are very loud rumbles after having been little ones—they are the children.

"It's cold weather now," said Old King Thunder, "around here, and they don't expect one of our storms at this

GAS BUGGIES—An Anguished Woman.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

Washington Crosses the Delaware.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

HAVING FAILED TO GET ACROSS THE DELAWARE TO PURSUE WASHINGTON'S ARMY INTO PENNSYLVANIA, LORD CORNWALLIS STATIONED 1,000 HESSIANS, UNDER COLONEL RAHL, AT TRENTON TO GUARD THE RIVER.

THINKING THEMSELVES SAFE FROM ATTACK, THE HESSIANS RELAXED THEIR VIGILANCE, AND MADE MERRY WITH THE CHRISTMAS FESTIVITIES.

WHEN FOLLOWED AN AGONIZING MARCH OF EIGHT MILES TO TRENTON THROUGH THE SNOW.

AFTER THE BATTLE, WASHINGTON CROSSED THE RIVER INTO PENNSYLVANIA WITH 1,000 PRISONERS AND A GREAT QUANTITY OF CAPTURED ARMS AND AMMUNITION.

They Yell at Each Other.

time of the year, so we'll just give them a good surprise."

"You have the grandest ideas," said Old Queen Thunder.

Old King Thunder and Old Queen Thunder rest when they are not having parties and noisy talks. That gives them so much more strength and energy when the time comes for a good, stormy time.

They went where it was warm most of the time, but now and again they like to surprise people, and they come suddenly around when it just seems too silly to have a thunder and lightning storm.

They called their lightning friends and asked them to join their fun.

And as you know the lightning family and the Thunder family have been friends for years and years.

No two families are greater friends than these two.

Well, the Thunder family and the lightning family went rumbling and crashing and yelling and roaring and flashing and forking about their sky playground, and the Thunder children played hide and seek around the mountains and the hills.

And then along came the Raindrop children and Old King of the Clouds and then there was excitement.

Not only were they having their party when it was cold but they had it in the middle of the night.

People got up out of nice, warm beds and pulled down windows in bedrooms and the noise was so great hardly any slept through it.

It quieted down soon again, but not until it had given almost everyone enough noise to wake them up.

The Thunder family and the lightning family had other plans and engagements and could not stay around long, but they had a splendid little surprise party and said they loved each other which were arranged on the spot.

"That's the way with my dear King," roared Old Queen Thunder. And the Old King added:

"That's the appreciative kind of Old Queen I have."

"Our dear parents," said the children.

And the thunder gradually died away, and the lightning disappeared, and only the rain remained around for awhile!

The KITCHEN CABINET

(By 1925, Western Newspaper Union.)

Wistful we are in our infancy Of childish questioning and discontent. Whatever befalls us is divinely meant. Thou truth, the clearer for thy mystery?

Make us to meet what is or is to be With fervid welcome, knowing it is sent To serve us in some way full excellent. Though we discern it all belatedly.

GOOD THINGS WE LIKE

This is the time of the year when chilly mornings make a hot waffle a delight, and griddle cakes will now be popular. One way to use up leftover bread is to cover it with water and let stand until well soaked, then squeeze dry, cover with sour milk and let stand overnight. In the morning add soda, egg, flour to make a batter, and cook on a hot griddle. Such cakes are light.

Smothered Round Steak—Try out three slices of fat salt pork, add one sliced onion and cook until the onion is brown. Add a two-pound steak, sear on both sides, add one and one-half cups of cold water, bring to the boiling point and add seasoning to taste of salt and pepper and simmer until the meat is tender. Remove the steak and strain the stock—there should be a cupful—thicken and season for gravy.

Colonial Cabbage—Shred a hard head of cabbage which has been allowed to crisp in cold water. Drain well and add sweet cream, using enough to moisten the cabbage, a few tablespoons of sugar, a little salt, and just enough vinegar to give zest to the dressing.

Squash Pudding—Mix one-half cupful of sugar, one and one-fourth teaspoonfuls of salt, one teaspoonful of cinnamon to two and one-fourth cups of steamed strained squash, the yolks of two eggs slightly beaten and two and one-fourth cups of hot milk; then add the stiffly beaten whites of the eggs. Turn into a buttered mold or pudding dish and bake in a moderate oven until firm. Serve hot or cold.

Hubbard squash cut into pieces and baked in the oven may be served with a generous piece of butter in each. This saves work in preparation and tastes as well as the steamed squash.

Bill the Builder speaks up

"I HAVE gotten into the habit of putting Thatcher Steam or Hot Water Boilers in the houses I build. In my section of the country everyone has a good word for the Thatcher Boiler. It does its job 100% and hates a big coal bill like a bull hates a red rag. Sure, I have a Thatcher in my own house. We never know a cold day indoors."

THE Thatcher Round Boiler (Steam or Hot Water) requires attention only once or twice a day to keep it firing perfectly. It is most conservatively rated, which means it holds ample heating power in reserve for unusually bitter weather. The Round Boiler is easy on the coal pile and almost runs itself.

Sportsmen Who Discard Fish and Game Laws Pay Penalties Which Will Be Used to Improve Sport.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Albany, Oct. 6.—Not recoveries in fines and penalties imposed for violations of the fish and game law for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1923, totalled over $90,000, an increase of about $2,000 over the preceding year.

The gross amount of fines and penalties was $97,777.86 of which there was retained as court costs by the justices of the peace before whom the cases were tried $7,777.86, leaving a net recovery of $90,000.00 turned over to the state treasurer by the Conservation Commission.

The Commission's receipts from the sale of hunting, trapping and fishing licenses for the year amounted to $354,239.45.

Under the law enacted by the Legislature this year for the establishment of a conservation fund, one-half of all moneys received by the Conservation Commission from the sale of hunting, trapping and fishing licenses after July will go into such fund.

Ten thousand dollars already have been deposited to the credit of the conservation fund and this sum will be largely increased by the time the legislature of 1924 is in session. The law provides that after appropriation by the Legislature, the conservation fund shall be applied only to the establishment and maintenance of a state wide system of fish and game refuges, to the promotion of public fishing and shooting and to the demonstration of forest management.

With another law passed this year which provides for combination hunting and fishing licenses it is expected that the receipts from the sale of licenses will be largely increased and will make available a good sized fund to be expended for the improvement of, hunting and fishing.

Campers on the public camp sites receive valuable information as to proper methods of camping, the importance of care with fires, and matches in the woods and the strict observance of sanitary precautions.

NEW PALTZ

New Paltz, Oct. 6.—The next meeting of the Dutch Guild will be held October 8 at the home of Mrs. Moses Sprague.

At a recent meeting of the Home Bureau the officers of last year were re-elected as follows: Chairman, Mrs. Irving D. Kortright; vice chairman, Miss Mary Nilon; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Young.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Hall of San Jose, Cal., have rented rooms of Mrs. Daisy Tamney for the winter.

Miss Gertrude Nichols, of the Normal School, was one of the speakers at the teachers' conference at Poughkeepsie this week. Secretary of State Florence E. S. Knapp also spoke.

The Misses Helen Rider and Agnes Armstrong are spending a week at Haines Falls in the Catskills. The Misses Bessie Armstrong and Edna Rider joined them at Haines Falls for the week end.

Mrs. Edward C. Conway of Albany will sing at the Reformed Church on Sunday. Mrs. Conway is studying for grand opera in New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wright and daughters, Mildred and Lulu, attended the Grahamsville fair on Wednesday.

George Pratt, president of the Highland National Bank, celebrated his 55th birthday last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Brundage and Mr. and Mrs. Ennis A. Wood have returned from a trip to Niagara Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Smith and family entertained Mr. and Mrs. Irving Ayers and family of Forest Glen on Friday evening.

Mrs. Hickford and Dr. and Mrs. Hutchings of Woburn, Mass., were the guests of Mrs. Frank Allen last week. On Thursday they all motored to Lake Minnewaska.

Harry Kniffin is installing hot water heat in the residence of Mrs. DeWitt Van Wagoner.

Mr. and Mrs. Christian Becker entertained seventeen guests last Sunday. They have had the best summer boarding season they have ever known and expect to have their house filled with guests over the Columbus Day week end.

Miss Joyce Preston of Highland, who graduated from the New Paltz Normal School last June, has entered Connecticut College at New London, Connecticut.

Miss Alice Kortright of Eltinge avenue has become a member of the choir of the Poughkeepsie Reformed Church on Hyster avenue. Country Club Will Incorporate Zena, Oct. 5.—On Friday evening, October 5, the Zena Country Club held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Lynch of Zena.

Several important matters were brought up at this meeting, particularly the amendments to the constitution and by-laws.

It must be remembered that the club is not yet one year old, yet, at the time of its organization the membership was so limited that the officers were also limited. Now, with its membership nearing the one hundred mark, it has been suggested to broaden the official staff.

Of course the untiring efforts of the president, Dan Lynch, are unlimited together with the valuable help of the treasurer, William Klementis, Sr. Therefore, in order to relieve both secretary and treasurer one of the amendments was to elect a financial secretary at the regular yearly election of officers in January. In the meantime the president appointed Miss Dorothy Allen of Glens Falls, our local popular school teacher in Zena, to act as financial secretary until the regular election in January.

Another amendment was that a board of governors consisting of six members be elected for a term of three years of which the term of office of two shall expire each year.

The secretary is about to proceed with the incorporation of the club. As usual at every meeting new members are added, including Miss Emma Platseder, Addison Short and the Messrs. Darling and Davis of Kingston.

The board of governors submitted several estimates on lumber, etc., for the building of the club house with the result that Mr. Darling's estimate was accepted.

Several men are all ready for the labor next week and for all those who did not attend the meeting, it is hoped they will make good their promises as volunteers.

Donations are already coming in, some in the form of promises when the club house is erected, and a Viator has been donated through Mr. and Mrs. Lynch by some of the New York city guests, to make it snappy. Thanks also are extended to Mrs. Mac Bots and her friends. A piano is the property of the club.

All sorts of preparations are under way for the shadow party and supper to be held at the club house on Halloween, October 31. An orchestra of three or four pieces will furnish the music for the evening. All the ladies have volunteered to help serve and there will be many surprise dishes.

Several of the New York city guests who have enjoyed the open air dances throughout the summer months have pledged their appearance for this particular occasion.

Used By Millions Of Mothers

For Croup and Colds

Over 98 million jars of Vicks have been used in the past five years. This means the unbroken confidence of a vast army of mothers. They like Vicks because it solves a great problem—how to treat croup and colds without that continual dosing, which is so harmful to delicate little stomachs.

Being applied externally Vicks does not disturb the digestion. It can be freely used without the slightest harmful effect.

Vicks brings prompt relief from croup and often checks even the worst cold overnight. There is nothing to swallow. You just rub it on.

IN TRAFFIC OR FASHION, THE SIGNALS ARE SET FOR GREEN AND RED.

Whether you are watching traffic signals or the latest color schemes—it is always the same thing—the flashes of green and red arrest your attention. In reports from Biarritz and San Sebastian, as well as from activity centers nearer home, reds and greens invariably find themselves headlines. Fortunately, there are so many shades of each of these primary colors that we are spared monotony.

If you want to harken back to the last word in color, select for evening a frock which is the yellow-green of chaitreune—in some cases even as yellow as sulphur. There are also citron greens, and all manner of lettuce-like shades, which deepen to sage and water tones.

The Metal Touch as It is Interpreted by Eugene de Jullette.

Reds follow the prohibitive beverages. Stylized have looked at the grape when it is red and found that it provides a series of flattering and likely colors, they have therefore gone about making up red costumes with such enthusiasm that, owing to its greater visibility, we are always by way of seeing red everywhere—some of it tending toward fuchsia and other purplish tints. One finds the red costume in everything from hairbrag to velvet, and red furs not far behind some dyes to match and others the natural red of the fox, or the tawny tone of the leopard.

Bright blue deserves mention in any report of colorings which are approved, while runways still persist in lauding black, especially when it is integrated in flimsy materials or relieved by either color or metal, as in the case of the graceful afternoon gown sketched. The formal afternoon gown in itself is an important feature of the season, the natural trend toward elaboration having a stimulating effect on this type of costume.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

A Stylish Frock for the Growing Girl

1910 Plaid woolen with facings of crepe in a contrasting color was chosen for this pleasing model. The collar is convertible. The sleeve may be in 3/4 length or short as in the large view.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10 year size requires 3 yards of one material 32 inches wide. If made as illustrated it will require 2 1/2 yards of plaid and 7/8 yard of plain material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Fashion Book Notice.

Send 15c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our up-to-date Fall and Winter 1925 Book of Fashions, showing color plates and containing 500 designs of ladies' misses' and children's patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle (illustrating 30 of the various, simple stitches), all valuable hints to the home dressmaker.

WOMEN TO MAKE PILGRIMAGE TO GRAVE OF BURROUGHS.

The annual pilgrimage of the John Burroughs Memorial Association to the birthplace and grave of John Burroughs and his home, "Woodchuck Lodge," at Roxbury, on Saturday will be enlarged this year by a number of parties organized under the sponsorship of the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs.

Because of the federation's aim of "stimulating interest in American shrines, and the literature of the best American scientists and writers," many clubs have acted favorably upon a suggestion that a community group be formed to join the Burroughs Memorial Association in its journey to Roxbury.

Everybody interested is being asked to go. It is customary for those journeying to Roxbury each year on October 10 to take a box or a basket lunch, and to picnic in the wood lot opposite the hillside field where the naturalist is buried on the Burroughs estate, which has been purchased and is being maintained by Henry Ford.

Besides a number of Kingstons, there will be delegations present from the Burroughs Clubs of Oneonta and the Monday Club of Binghamton, and it is expected that clubs in other places will form groups to take the trip.

Because of the beauty of the drive to Roxbury and the sightliness of the spot where Burroughs is buried, those expecting to make the trip are counting on a day of unusual pleasure if the day is fine.

White Relieves Frock Made of Sombre Black

The all-black frock for daytime wear seems to be fading from the picture. Above is shown a charming model in black, with fine French white Rannel introduced in the wide sleeves, collar and pockets.

Hints Worth While to Amateur Dressmakers

Amateur dressmakers often find a difficulty in getting the necks of frocks quite right, especially when using soft material: the kind that stretches. It is easy to make a mistake in cutting out the neck, and to find when trying on the frock that the material has given, so that the neck is much too low. It is an easy mistake to make, but not so easy to remedy, for these straight kimono frocks can be completely spoiled by a wrong neck line.

A good plan is to decide on the shape of opening required, then, measuring carefully, run a strong tacking thread round the line where you are going to cut, and then cut above it. If you are sure of your neck line you can even sew the binding along one side of the material before cutting out, then cut, and finish binding quickly before the material can slip at all.

For a pattern that needs to be fitted on the wearer, it is a good rule to cut as little as possible, still allowing enough space for the head to get through before fitting; then cut further as required, and finish as quickly as possible.

Milady's New Belts Are Narrow and Decorative

The new belts are narrow, confining themselves to the widths between one and two inches. However, the fact that there is little of them in no way interferes with the trend toward ornamentation, and these narrow strips are replete with trimming. They may have a bead or clip edge, or if the center is to be trimmed they sometimes have planked edges with a bit of cut work.

Hand painting is noted on many of the fall belts. Some of these have matching pocket ornaments, and collars and cuffs. These, as a rule, are made, each object bearing a cluster of brilliant flowers.

Pencil blue is one of the favored belt colors. Others are green, brown and purple with black patent forming many of the children's belts.

A belt of two colors has edges and tabs of tan leather, while the body of the belt is red kid. The tan tabs end in arrow points, which slip through eyelets of the kid. The buckle on this 1 1/4-inch belt is metal.

The ring type fastening with snaps is favored. There also are metal and covered buckles shown. Nail-head and silver-spot effects adorn many of the suede models, and one belt with pinked edge has gilt all around.

Overlays of color frequently trim the models of gold and silver, as well as comprising the body of belts where the gilded leather is used as ornamentation.

Frocks Disappointing, Paris Writer Asserts

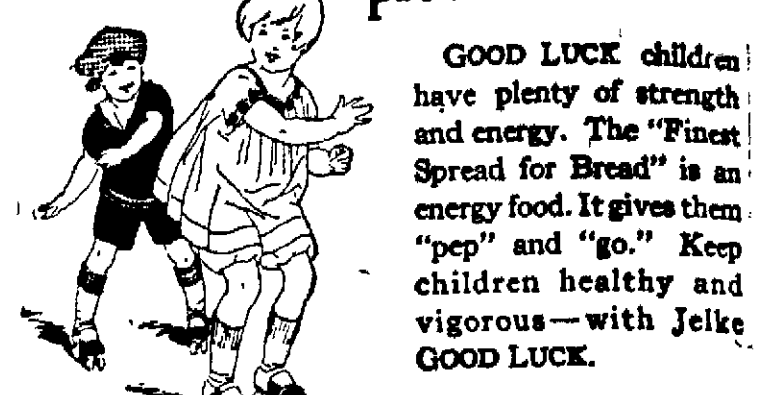

So far evening frocks on display or even in prospect at most of the salons are disappointing, says a Paris fashion correspondent in the New York Times. Some are frankly ugly. There is a striving for the bizarre. Most people will be sorry to hear that we are threatened with a return to the excessively low U-shaped back, which displays all the ugliest features of that part of the anatomy. A mode that even few beautiful women can wear with the best effect.

High in front, the new evening dresses show a tendency to narrowness across the chest, and are still sheerest. They are mostly severely plain at the top, all the trimming being on the bottom of the skirt, where at dinners, at the theater, and even at table in a dancing club, it cannot be seen at all. Many of them are a frank return to the shaded-rainbow idea, and these are all pale at the top and darker at the bottom. Even these creators admit that they will have to offer some alternative to these later.

Steamer Tremper At Hiltebrant's

The steamboat Mohack, of the Keansburg line of New York city, has been chartered to replace the steamboat Jacob H. Tremper, of the Central Hudson Company, which was damaged in a collision with a canal boat off Clinton Point, ten miles above Newburgh, Thursday morning.

The Tremper is in dry dock at the Hiltobant shipyard at South Rondout. It was said it would be more than a week before it is put back into service. According to William H. Hunt, night manager of the Central Hudson company at the Newburgh headquarters, a hole was punched in the side of the Tremper just above the water line, and a drive wheel was badly bent and all braces along the side tipped off. He estimated the damage at several thousand dollars. He said the canal boat was only slightly damaged and no one ceeded to Poughkeeps, where the freight was unloaded, and the car came to Kingston.

Uncomfortable Feet
Are So
Unnecessary

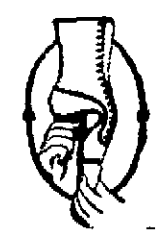

BY GONE years one endured a certain amount of discomfort in footwear as a necessary evil.

But not now. The shoe does yet. Perhaps you are one of those who do not happen to know there is now a shoe which gives more solid comfort to troublesome feet than anyone would be likely to believe possible.

This shoe is called the

because it is shaped as Nature does the delicate Cantilever arched bones of the foot.

It is flexible where it should be, at the ball and at the arch, not stiff and unyielding. It harmonizes with "the living arches of the foot."

Designed to fit the foot—not to force the foot to fit it.

Hence the unusual comfort. Just try it.

Sunday School Workers Ready

Three Thousand Will Attend State Convention Next Week at Binghamton of New York State Sunday School Association.

Binghamton is aglow with enthusiasm over the approaching State Sunday School Convention, which is scheduled for next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, October 14, 15, 16. It will extend its hospitality to a great body of teachers and leaders who are freely contributing their time and service to the moral and religious education of the youth and children of the empire state. They will assemble for a study of the problems of religious education as they face the present day. For three days they will sit under a rich program, which provides for the discussion of vital problems connected with religious education that call for solution in Sunday schools, vacation church schools, community training schools, and kindred religious educational activities.

The local committee of arrangements was organized last spring. With its score of sub-committees, it has anticipated every need of the convention and will sustain Binghamton's reputation as a host. An extensive publishers' exhibit will be housed in the social rooms of the First Presbyterian Church where delegates will find on display all books, Sunday-school helps and equipment published by the numerous publishing houses of the largest cities.

The presentation of a drama, "The Gift," by the Binghamton High School Dramatic Class of 1925 will attract such large numbers that the spacious high school auditorium with 2,000 sittings has been engaged for that evening, Wednesday, October 14.

The convention in its inspirational and educational features will make it possible for delegates to take a "short course" in Sunday-school educational methods.

Advance registrations may be made up to October 10, at state headquarters and afterwards at Binghamton. Delegates planning to attend may secure, without charge, a preliminary announcement and credential card, together with an advance program. Address the New York State Sunday School Association, 80 Howard street, Albany, N. Y.

Prizes for Safety Art Posters

Open to High School Pupils for Purpose of Stimulating Thought on Accident Prevention—The Contest Closes February 10, 1926.

By Telegraph to The Freeman
Chicago, Oct. 6.—(Special)—As a part of its national program of safety education the National Safety Council announced last night a national art poster contest among high school pupils for the purpose of stimulating thought on accident prevention among high school pupils and their families.

Forty-nine cash prizes will be awarded, according to William H. Cameron, managing director of the National Safety Council. The first prize will consist of $100 cash award going to the high school pupil who submits the best poster. Second prize is $50, third, $40, fourth, $30, fifth, $25, sixth, $20, seventh, $15. The next six prizes consist of $10 each, the next ten of $5 each, and the next 25 of $1 each. A beautiful loving cup will be awarded to the high school submitting the best group of art posters. Besides the prizes, 50 of the posters will be awarded honorable mention.

The judges announced by Mr. Cameron are Albert W. Whitney, secretary, National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters and chairman, education section, National Safety Council; Andrew Loomis, Chicago artist, and L. G. Bentley, general safety agent, Chesapeake & Ohio Railway and chairman, committee on publicity and education, safety section, American Railway Association.

The contest will close Tuesday, February 16, 1926, at midnight.

"The subject of the poster may concern safety in the home, in the street or in other public places and at work," Mr. Cameron said last night. "There are dozens of accident hazards to choose from. We come in contact every day with hazards which may result in injuries such as burns, scalds, cuts and electric shock in the homes; automobile and pedestrian and street car accidents in the street; trades and auto smashups at railway grade crossings and various accidents which parents and friends who work in factories and shops can tell boys and girls about."

"The poster should express a helpful suggestion concerning some accident hazard or hazards. The size of the posters should be 18 by 24 inches. It may be on suitable paper, cardboard or canvas with crayons, pencil, pen and ink, water color, oils or any other medium suitable for the purpose."

"The name, age, address and school of each contestant must be written clearly in ink and enclosed within a sealed envelope attached firmly by pin or clip to the poster submitted. As the posters are received each will be numbered, the sealed envelope being given the same number. Thus, the names of the contestants will not be revealed until the committee has decided upon the merit of every poster received. All posters should be addressed to the Art Director, National Safety Council, 168 North Michigan avenue, Chicago."

Memorial Tablet For Esopus

In Honor of The 129 Men and Women of That Township Who Entered The World War Is Being Planned By The Public School Patriotic Society.

The district superintendent of schools and many of the teachers of the town of Esopus met recently at Port Ewen and organized The Public School Patriotic Society. Town of Esopus, for the purpose of bringing about the erection of a World War Veterans' Tablet in memory of the one hundred and twenty-nine men and women who entered the service from the town of Esopus. The society believes that a man or woman living in the country should be recognized for service just the same as a man or woman living in the city. Most cities have erected memorials to their service men and women. There are fifteen school districts in the township of Esopus. The campaign for funds will begin soon.

John U. Gillette will have general direction of the campaign and each teacher will have special supervision in her school district, assisted by the pupils.

The following are the principals and teachers who will assist in this patriotic movement. If the response is quick and generous, Old Esopus will be on the map Decoration Day, 1926.

- No. 1—R. W. Redmond.
- No. 2—Angie Whitney.
- No. 3—Winifred House.
- No. 4—Sara Kenney.
- No. 5—Minnie Smith.
- No. 6—Ella DuBois Gillette.
- No. 7—Anna Devine.
- No. 8—Contracta.
- No. 9—Lillian M. Scharsch.
- No. 10—Helen R. Elgo.
- No. 11—Alice Redmond.
- No. 12—Contracta.
- No. 13—Prin. Mead Davis.
- No. 12—Marguerite Hommel.
- No. 13—Clara Van Steenburg.
- No. 12—Ruth DeGraff.
- No. 14—Prin. E. D. Warren.
- No. 14—Mary Norton.
- No. 15—Cathryn Munnell.
- No. 15—Mary Tacker.

The campaign will begin in a few days in District No. 11, West Park and later in the other districts. A printed receipt will be given to each contributor for money received.

Invitation To Hear Lectures.

The Mondak Club will follow the same plan relative to the lecture course that it followed last year. As a result of the last lecture by Dr. Taylor of Newburg College, who was so popular that one will remember it for a long time, the Club is probable to have the Prof. E. R. Rorshach, through the Mondak Club, invites all interested persons to become associate members of the lecture course. That means that by paying $2.00 anyone, man or woman, not a member of the Mondak Club may have the exceptional privilege of attending these night lectures. Associate membership tickets may be secured from any of the Mondak Club.

K. H. S. Tennis Team Eliminated

The Kingston High School tennis team were not quite as successful at Hamilton College Friday, competing for the state doubles championship as they had been at St. Stephen's the week before.

In the first round of doubles, Fowler and Baylor representing the Maroon and White were defeated by Emanuel and Pooley of Rochester, thus being eliminated for the finals. In the first match the Rochester entrants triumphed over the locals but in the next round the K. H. S. racket welders came in strong evening up the series. But in the last match the Rochester lads took the series.

L. R. Fowler of Pleasantville who defeated the other member of Kingston's team at St. Stephen's in the sectional meet, outplayed his opponents greatly on the Hamilton courts, thus winning the state singles championship.

DEMISEY-KEARNS CONTRACT CAN BE BROKEN

By Telegram to The Freeman. Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 6.—Jack Demisey's contract with Jack Kearns, his manager, may be broken at any time it comes to a legal test, according to Ray Cannon, Milwaukee lawyer who has been retained as the boxer's legal adviser. The contract, according to Cannon, became void immediately after the division of real estate properties held jointly by Demisey and Kearns.

Cannon denied he was to assume the management of Demisey, but stated that plans were under way to make Wisconsin the site of Demisey's next bout.

Fate of Pirates Rests in Their Pitching Staff

Lee Meadows is the Ace, With Vic Aldridge Showing Best Form at Present Time—Sentimentalists Want Adams and Johnson to Hook Up.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 6.—Upon the effectiveness of their pitchers hang the chances of the Pittsburgh Pirates in the World Series. The Buccaneers and their supporters are confident that their attacking powers are not second to those of the Washington Senators, for they literally have blasted their way into the championship of the National League. They have led the circuit consistently in team batting, and since their first spurt in June, which soon carried them into the lead, they have not fallen below a club mark of .300 once.

Combined with the recognized speed of the outfit, which is generally agreed to be the most dazzling in modern baseball history, the Corsair attack is something to marvel at as a versatile and powerful offensive.

But late in the season, Pirate hurling, which did its part in winning league laurels, began to slip, and even Meadows, Yde and Kremer, who bore the brunt of the work throughout the campaign, could not find their true form with any degree of consistency. Of the regulars, Vic Aldridge, secured last winter in the trade with the Cubs, maintained a steady gait.

List of Twirlers.

The Buccaneers will have the following chieftains available for World Series duty:

Lee Meadows, ace of the staff—secured from the Phillies several years ago in a trade that sent "Whitey" Glazner and "Cotton" Tierney away, and which also brought Johnny Hawlings, the outstanding "money" players of the game, here. "Specs" is a smart and resourceful twirler, effective with men on bases, and cool when in trouble.

Ray "Wiz" Kremer—Kremer joined the club last year and immediately took his place as a regular. Recognized as one of the smartest pitchers in the Coast League, whence he came, he has preserved his reputation in the East. He mixes an underhand with an over-arm delivery, and has won a great majority of his games in the last two seasons.

Aldridge is Ready. Possessed of an excellent fast one, a dazzling curve and a real fade-away, Vic found himself just at the right time, and was possibly the biggest defensive factor in the home stretch.

Johnny Morrison, "Jug-Handle" Johnny—so-called because of his curve, which is said to be the best in the majors today. Morrison is a problem. With everything essential for pitching success, he has failed to reach the heights. Early in the season, with Lee Meadows, he bore the brunt of the pitching burden, but his best work later was in relief roles. He seems unflinching when helping a mate, but rarely finishes a game he starts. However, it is no secret that the Pirate management is confident that he will be of great value in the series, and he will be nursed along in order that he may be thrown in at any time.

Charles "Babe" Adams, dean of all major league hurlers. Adams is rounding out a most honorable career, and although he is far from the pitcher he formerly was, there is still plenty of effective relief pitching in his good right arm. There is hardly a chance that he will start a game, although sentimentalists are already clamoring that he oppose Walter Johnson when the Senators' patriarch takes the mound.

Tom Sheehan, secured from the Reds in exchange for Al Nichols, cast-off first baseman. Sheehan is used exclusively for relief roles, and has proved to be one of the outstanding pitchers of the league for such work.

"Rube" Oldham, former Tiger star, reclaimed from Des Moines of the Western League when the Buccaneers started their final eastern jaunt of the season—the trip that really won the flag for them. Oldham was purchased to provide the club with a second left hander, and he has more than come up to expectations. He will be used in the series for relief roles, along with Adams and Sheehan.

Coe in Sports Contest.

44,000 Fans at Opening Game

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 6.—The world series starts tomorrow. If it were put off any longer Pittsburgh simply couldn't stand it. The strain here is so intense that Barney Dreyfuss bought two editions of the same newspaper to find out which team was going to win. Practically all the experts agree that the victory will go to the club that gets the breaks, a startling discovery.

Seriously, the series seems to be a toss up. The Senators were around this morning and it took just one look at them to discount all those stories of their injuries. Stanley Harris is ready and will play. Peckinpach never looked to be more fit. Johnson is primed to pitch the opener. Coveleskie probably will start the second game. There you have the latest bulletins from the bed sides of those broken down Washington cripples.

If anything, the Pirates are in even better condition. They did their daily dozen shortly after dawn and went through it like a bunch of school boys at play. Except for Eddie Moore, whose finger is slightly split, there is not an injured player on the Pittsburgh squad. Moore's injury is trivial and he will start.

President Dreyfuss of the Pittsburgh Club announced in broken tones last night that he had returned $500,000 for ticket applications he was unable to fill. Read that and weep, Barney did.

Forbes Field, the beautiful park overlooking the buildings and grounds of Carnegie Tech, is ready to house the largest crowds in its history. With the temporary stands just completed on the park property, adjoining left and centerfields, it will be possible to seat something like 44,000 persons. A new open-faced press stand has been completed which will accommodate 700 writers. Think of the words.

Senators All Set for Opener

Johnson Is in Fine Form. Peckinpach as Chipper as a Bird and Coveleskie Will Be Ready—Present Pitching Plans Announced by Harris.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 6.—Walter Johnson was never better. Peckinpach was as chipper as a bird on the wing. Coveleskie's back was all that a self-supporting member should be.

These were the tidings of good cheer imparted today by Stanley Harris, manager of the Washington Senators, co-attraction with the Pittsburgh Pirates in the world series starting tomorrow.

But the young man ran right out of ideas on the subject immediately. The rest of the good news was bad. It seemed that a poor night's repose had been enjoyed by all. The Senators, he said, spent the night, four and five to a room at the St. Moritz Hotel, to which they were shunted after it was discovered that there was no room for them at the William Penn, Schenley and Fort Pitt Hotels. The Senators have been a great club for double plays and they had to prove it last night. Most of them slept or gave an excellent imitation of the art on camp cots, Harris said.

"We can only hope to, stick it out for the two games here, then spend a night on the train and finally get the rest we need after Friday's game in Washington," Harris said. "We were led to believe our accommodations would be ample."

"The Pirates will be well taken care of in Washington at the Ward man Park Inn."

The rest of his story was optimistic. He said Johnson was right as a Ruffery's rhubarb, he intimated. "He's trained like a race horse," Joe Judge chimed in. "Walter is fifty per cent better than he was this time last year before we played the Giants."

Coveleskie, according to Harris, is not fully recovered from the effects of a lame back but will be ready when the bell rings for Thursday's second game.

"If he isn't I will switch to one of the other pitchers," Harris declared. "I have five. In all: Johnson, Coveleskie, Reuther, Zachary and Ferguson. Keep your eye on the latter. He's liable to curve ball the Pirates to death. My present plans, however, call for Johnson, Coveleskie, Reuther and Zachary to pitch in order and I think that is what will happen."

As for Peckinpach, the latter played the game of his young life on Sunday and his legs are as sound as Blackstone's law, according to Harris. Harris's spiked right hand still was swollen and inflamed but he will be in there when the series start.

RAILROAD TEAMS PLAYING WORLD CHAMPIONSHIP

Thousands of officials and employees of the two biggest railroad systems of the East, the New York Central Lines and the Pennsylvania Railroad System, were at Rochester today, when baseball teams representing these railroads fought out a world championship game at the International League Field. The Indiana Harbor Belt team, champion of the New York Central Lines East and West, met the champions of the Pennsylvania League.

More than five hundred of officials, representative citizens of Rochester and officers of the two Athletic Associations will act as hosts to the two teams at a dinner to be given in the Seneca Hotel tonight. Elmer Lee, vice president in charge of operation of the Pennsylvania, will preside as toastmaster.

The team from the West displays a remarkable record of over a dozen games played, of which only three were lost. The Philadelphia champions hold an equally good record.

Athletes Ought Not Retire From Sport

College athletes ought not to retire from competition upon graduation if they can find time to continue their athletic activities. In the opinion of Charley Paddock, world-famous sprinter and record holder, who recently returned from a world tour in which he and Loren Murchison, Newark A. C. star, competed in 19 countries. In addition to receiving further beneficial results by continuing to keep themselves in fine physical condition, it is Paddock's belief that athletes only reach the pinnacle of their form after they have passed twenty-five years.

FORMER STAR WILL COACH PRINCIPIA

Edgar Kaw, All-American Halfback of 1923, Is Athletic Director.

Edgar L. Kaw, football star at Cornell university two years ago, has been appointed athletic director of Principia academy. He will coach all major sports.

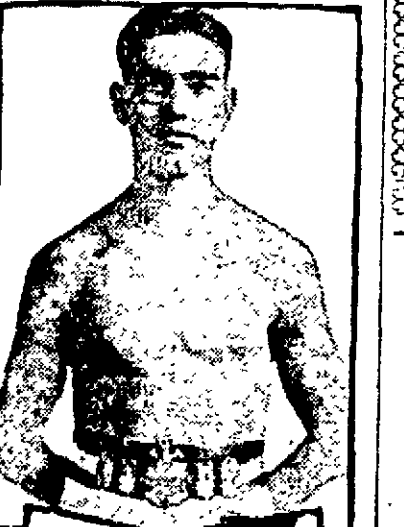

Kaw made a brilliant record in football while at Cornell university in 1922 and 1923. He played right halfback on the team and was selected on the late Walter Camp's All-America team. Kaw was also named on fifteen other All-America teams in 1923. The Cornell star led his team in scoring and had a very high average as a punter.

Dean G. E. Hubbell of Principia academy made the following statement regarding the appointment of Kaw and the release of Dr. Alfred Marquard: "The growth and increasing demands of the athletic and recreational work among the boys at Principia has brought about the necessity of having some one who can give his entire time to coaching and the management of athletic affairs."

"The fact that Doctor Marquard, who for the last three years has coached major sports at the school, must continue his dental practice, has made it necessary to provide someone else for this work. It is with regret that we part with Doctor Marquard, whose work has been eminently satisfactory from all standpoints."

While at Principia, Marquard made an excellent record. He led undefeated football teams in 1922 and 1923. The basketball team at Principia this year, under Marquard, won 11 out of 16 games, despite the fact that only one regular of last season was available.

Pinky Mitchell, junior lightweight champion, who has returned a check for $5,100, his share of the "gate" at his recent Milwaukee bout with Willie Harmon, because he was dissatisfied with his showing. He wanted to knock Harmon out, and also, the club staging the bout lost about $7,500.

Sporting Squibs

The next Olympic rowing regatta will be held at Amsterdam in 1928.

A total of $150,000,000 was bet on horse races in the Argentine last year.

Bowling and rifle shooting have been removed from the list of recognized sports at Yale.

Billiards is said to have been invented by Devigne during the reign of Louis XIV in France.

The South Australian Leger, first run at Adelaide in 1855, is now the oldest turf classic in Australia.

A 1,000-mile canoe trip through the Great Lakes was accomplished in three weeks by two boys of Grand Rapids, Mich.

The girls' basketball team of Woodmont, Alberta, holder of the world championship, has a record of 42 consecutive victories.

Charley Roseberry was looked upon as a synthetic heavyweight until he knocked out Eddie Sien, the ragged Chicago challenger.

"Gambol" Smith, formerly a competitive figure in the ranks of the heavyweight pugilists, is now playing comic roles in the "vaudeville."

French Athletes Will Enter Squib Sports

By Telegram to The Freeman. Philadelphia, Oct. 6.—France will send its first prize winning athletes to this country in 1926, to participate in the wonderful program of track and field sports to be held in the $2,000,000 stadium during the Centennial International Exposition.

Dr. George W. Orton, director of sports for the Centennial, has received a communication from Charles L. Sambert, secretary of the French Athletic Federation, telling him he could rely upon French participation. Official recognition will be given by the French government of its selecting the individual athletes and teams to be sent to this country.

"France is developing faster than any other foreign country in track and field athletics," said Dr. Orton, who was enthusiastic over the news. "In international matches held last year this year they have defeated England, Belgium, Holland and Switzerland. They must be recognized as ranking with the greatest sprinters and distance runners in the world."
